THE MONTOURIAN

Presented by the Class of 1955

Green Park Union High School

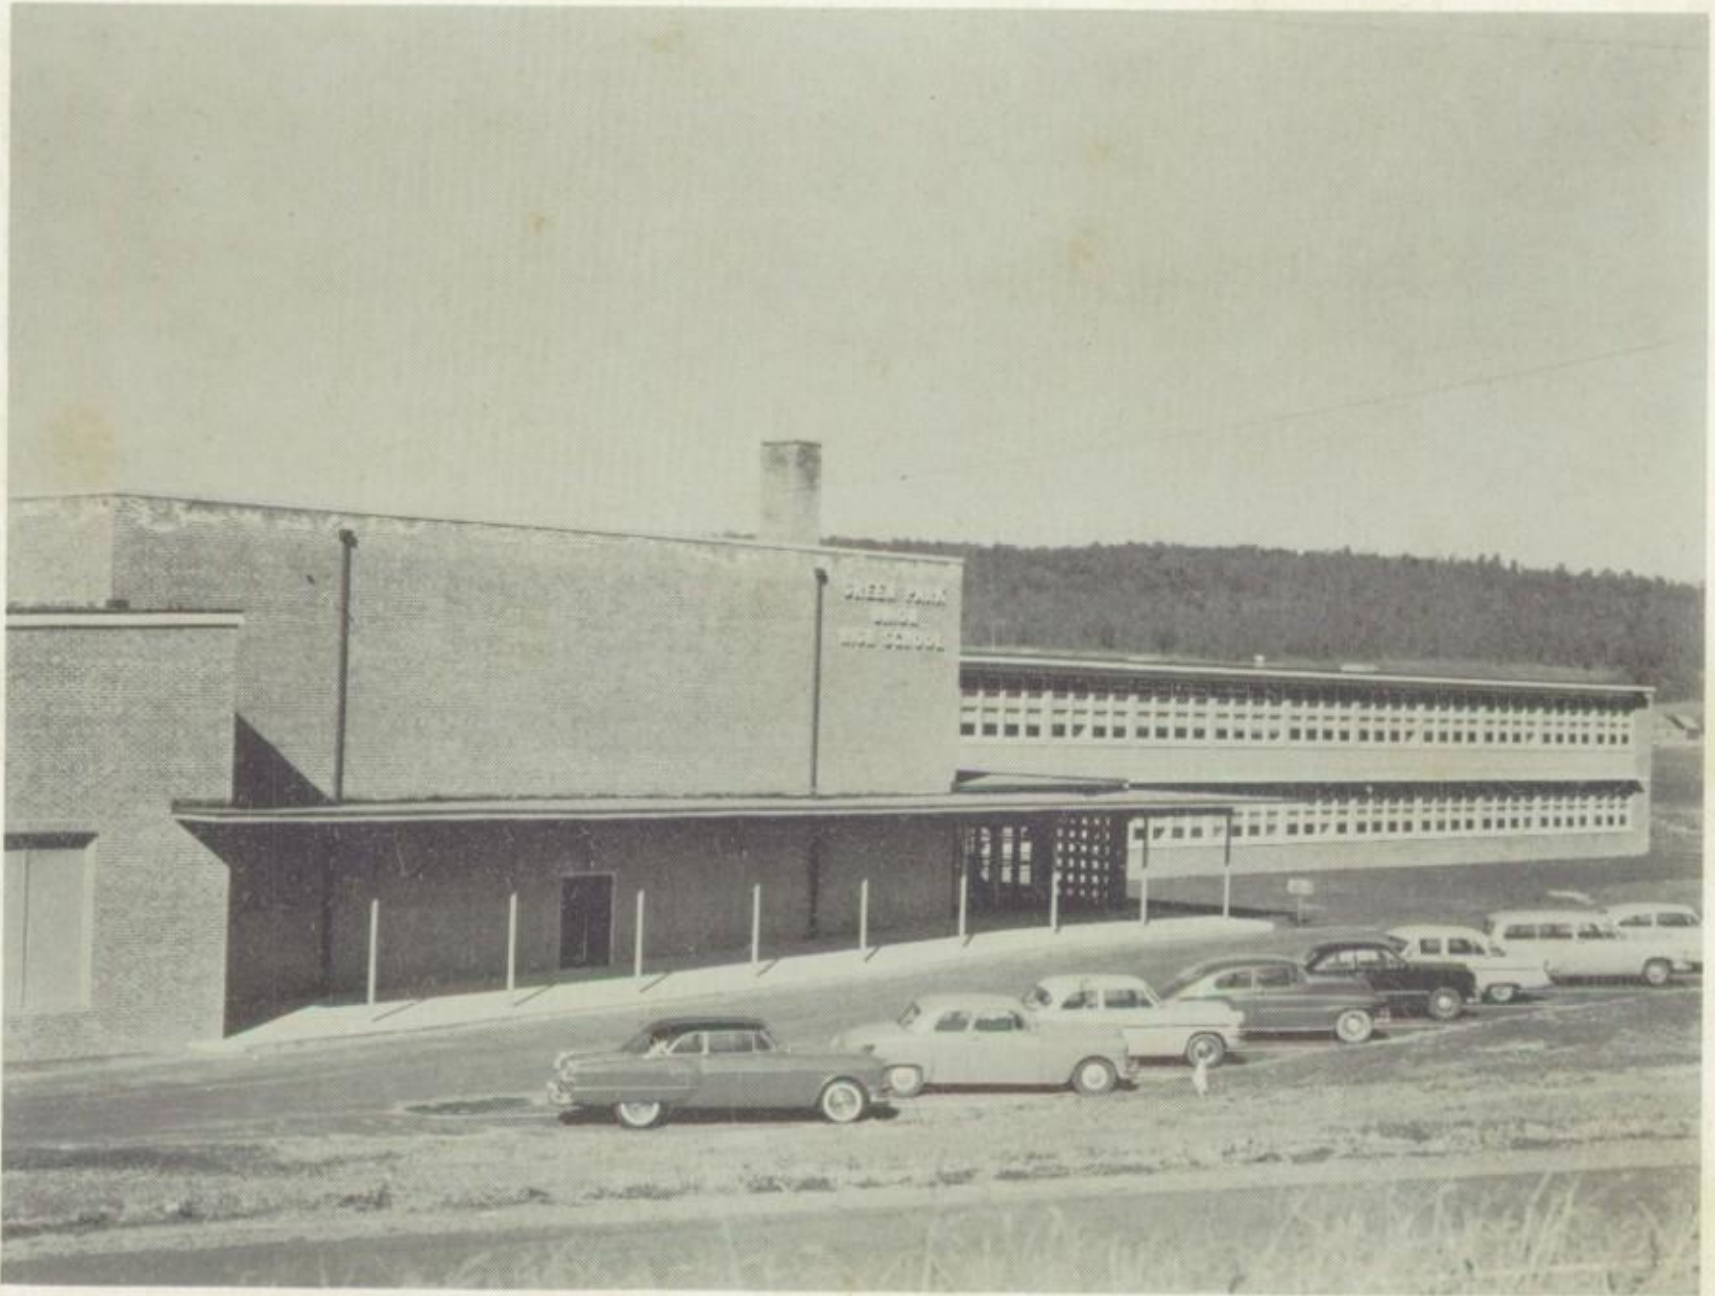

Main Entrance

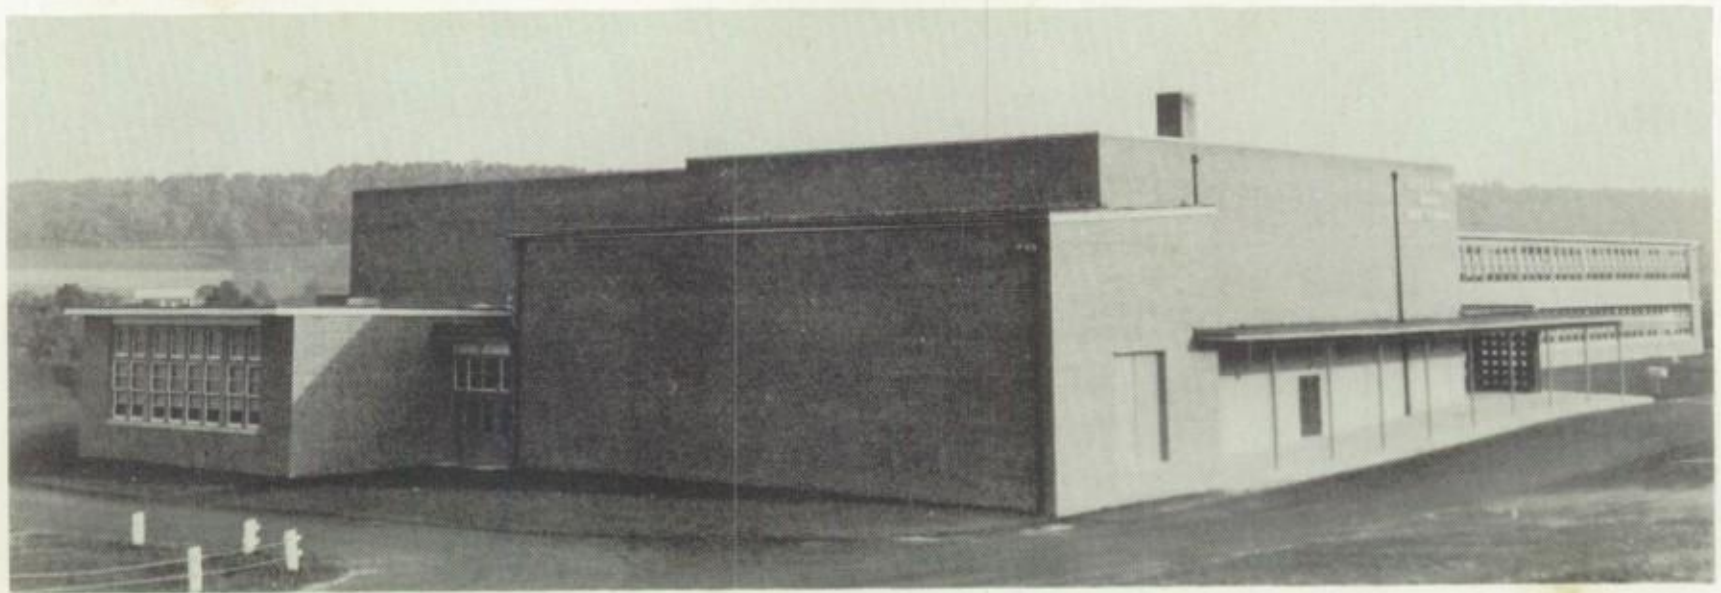

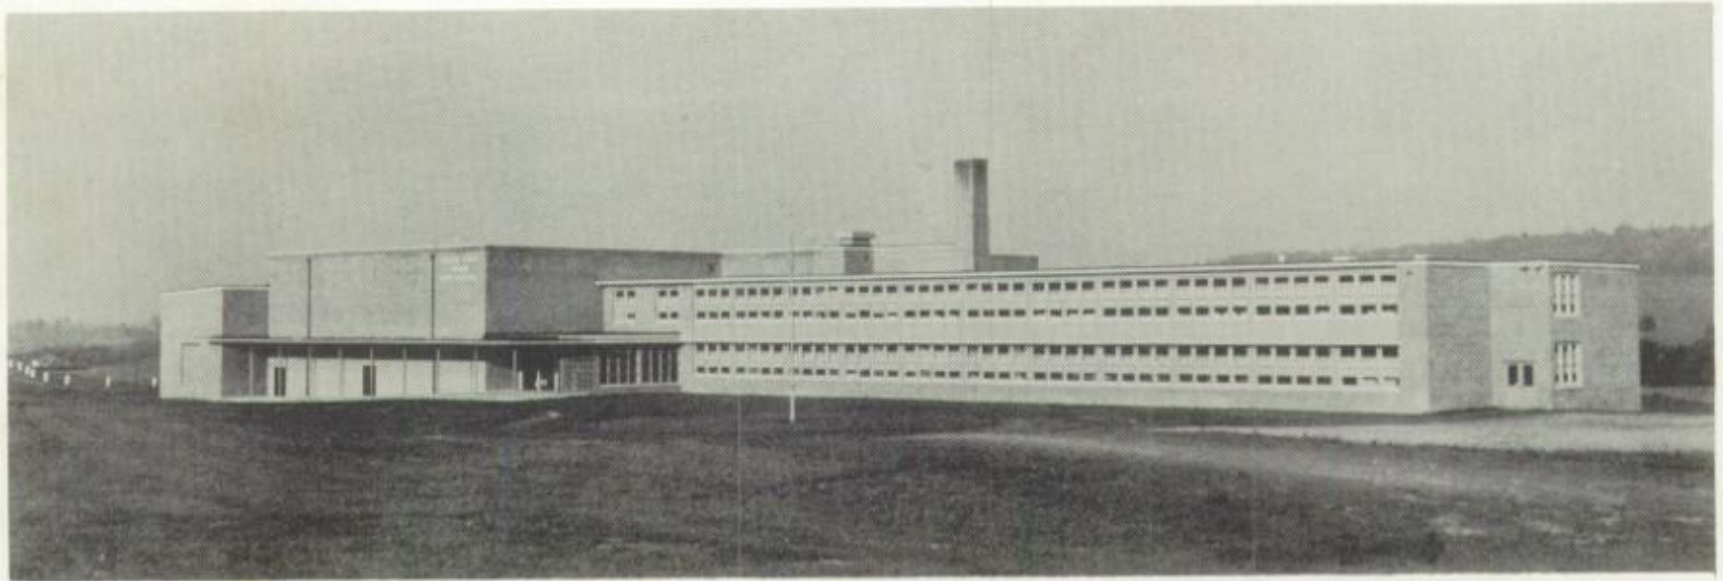

Through these doors on August 30, 1954, for the first time officially passed the students of the Green Park Union High School, 383 in number.

Dedication

To the Citizens of Green Park Union School District, who have given so generously of their time and their substance to provide us with this fine new building and all its facilities for the furtherance of our education, we, the Class of 1955, of the Green Park Union High School, do with deep humility and sincere appreciation, dedicate this seventh edition of "THE MONTOURIAN."

Our New Building

After several years of public meetings, much planning, and the many activities necessary to the construction of a new building, the ground-breaking ceremony was held on a cold drizzly Monday morning, March 16, 1953, with Mr. Paul F. Hurley, Supervising Principal presiding. The first shovelful of earth was turned by Mr. C. Harold Swartz, president of the Green Park Union Board of Education, with a nickel plated shovel presented to him by Robert Lamont Smith, president of the Student Council.

Perry County Superintendent of Schools, Jesse H. Snyder, was the principal speaker.

As soon as the ceremony was concluded, an earth mover was set in motion. From then on work on the building moved along according to schedule.

The building was accepted in July, 1954, and the student body entered on August 31, 1954.

Here are a few facts about the building which may be of interest:

It is situated on the north side of highway Route 274 about midway between the villages of Green Park and Elliottsburg. The address is Green Park Union High School, Elliottsburg, R. D. 1, Pennsylvania.

It is for the most part 2 stories high. The North end of the wing running north and south is 3 stories. This wing is 270 feet long. The east, west wing is 310 feet long.

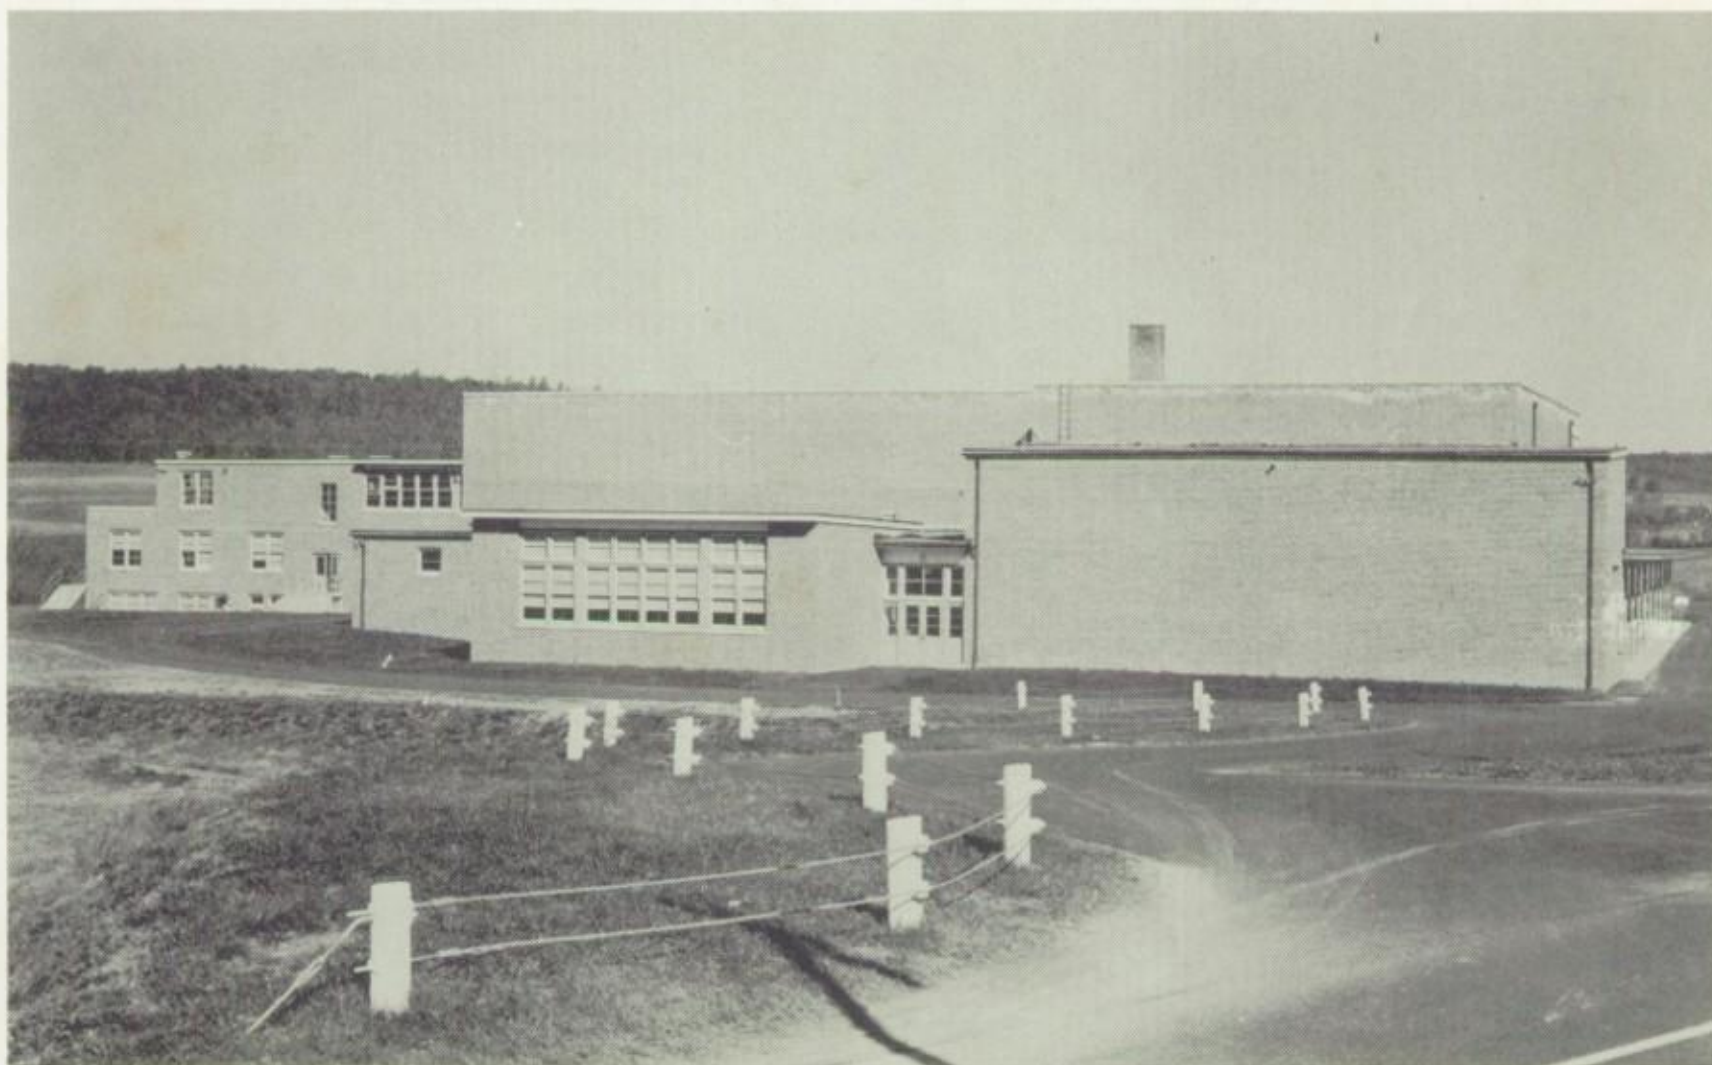

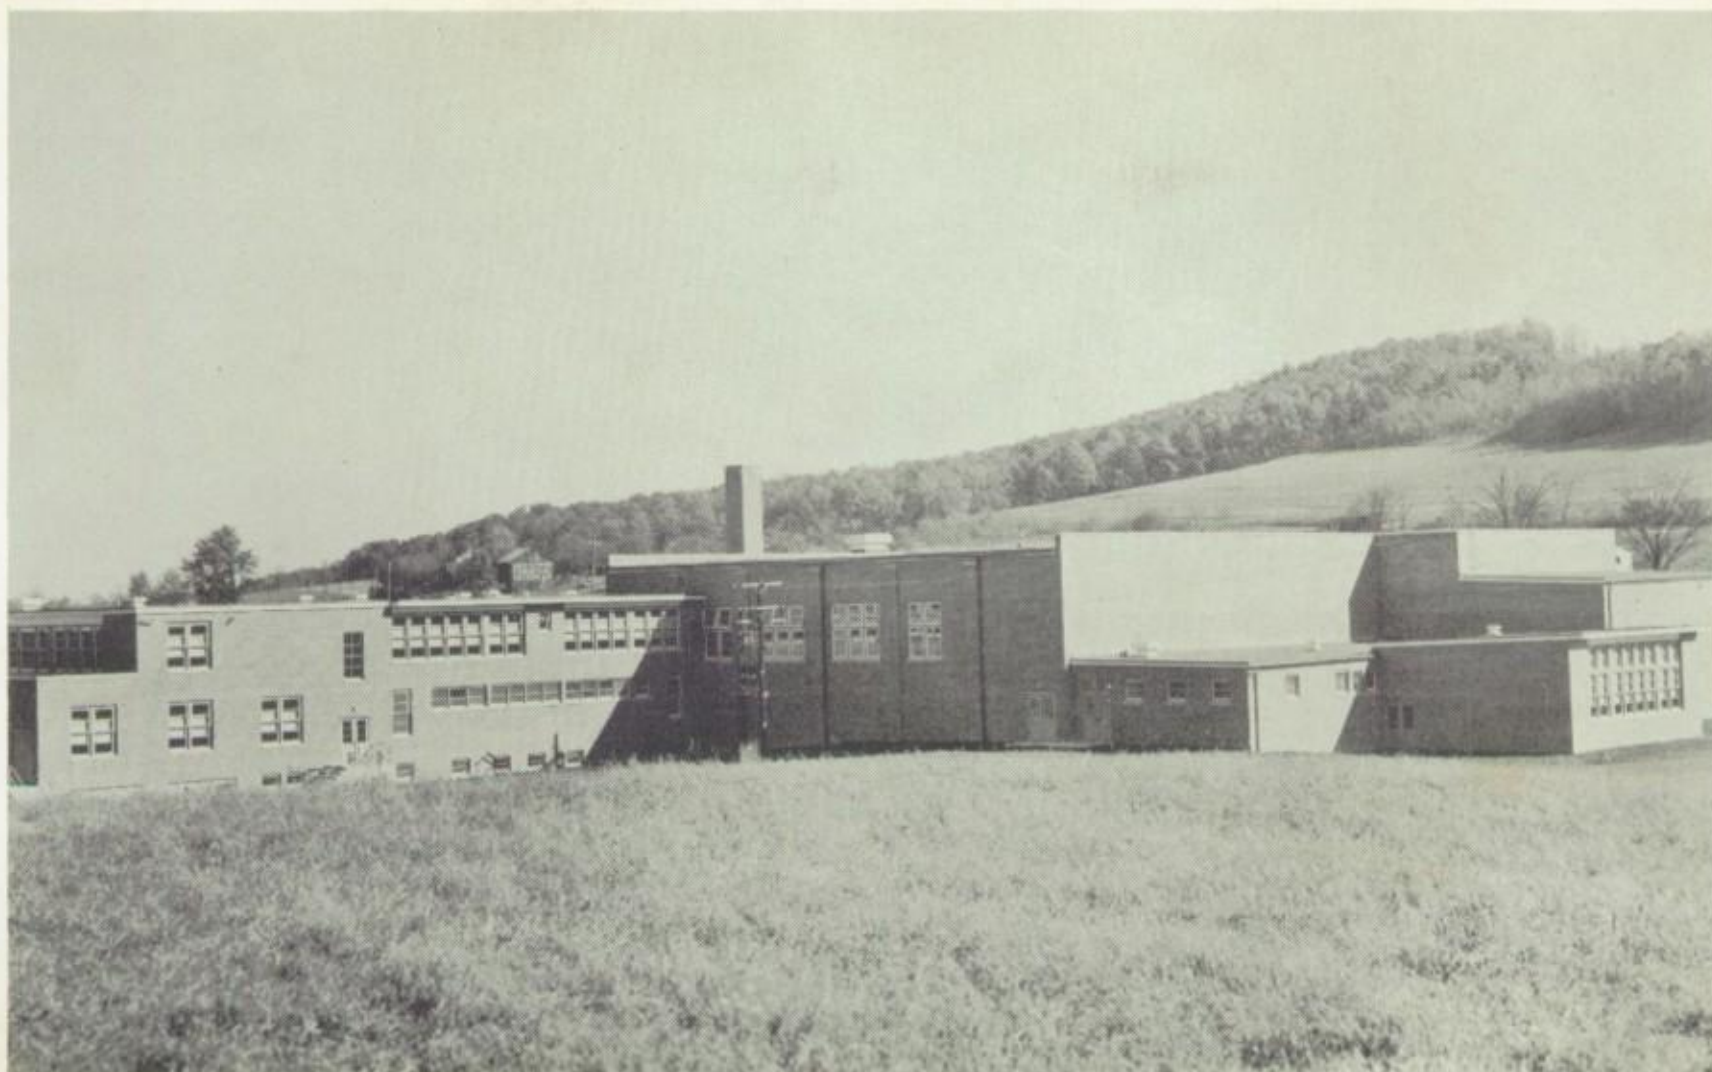

This building contains 130 rooms of all sizes. There are 15 class rooms, 12 of which now also serve as home rooms.

The auditorium has a seating capacity of 502, the gymnasium seats 498, and the cafeteria 160. The general Science laboratory will accommodate 40 and the physical science laboratory will accommodate 30.

The library seats 50. There are now approximately 1500 books on the shelves. The book capacity is 3000 volumes.

There are 19 different kinds of lamps in use in this building which includes 1868 different lampbulbs of which 1220 are of the flourescent type.

The building is situated on a 45 acre plot of ground. The athletic field is 520' long by 300' wide.

In 1952 we showed you the architects sketch of the proposed Green Park Union High School building.

In 1953 we showed two views of the actual building site.

In 1954 we showed two shots taken from the same locations showing the progress made in building.

This year we, the class of 1955, feel honored to present two more shots taken from the same locations showing the completed building.

Congratulations to the Class of '55:

Graduation Time, 1955, marks another milestone in the history of Green Park Union Schools. After construction of over one year, the new school was put into use in September, 1954. To you, Class of '55, is given the honor of being the first class to hold its graduation exercises in the new Junior-Senior High School Building.

The hopes and aspirations of many people have gone into the planning of this building. Just so you can be sure that the hopes and aspirations of many people have gone into the past years of your Education. Many people have worked and planned so that you could reach this point in your life. From now on, all will be up to you.

It is our earnest hope that you have formed helpful habits and gathered useful bits of information as you passed through our schools. We wish for each of you the best that life can bring as you journey along the pathway of History into the Future.

M. S. E. Gobrecht, B. S., M.Ed.

High School Principal

Shippensburg State Teachers College
Bucknell University

To you, the Class of 1955, has come the distinction of being the first class to be graduated from the new Green Park Union High School.

This is an experience which comes to but a comparatively few people.

To both faculty and students this will always be an outstanding experience.

The years ahead should be brighter, happier, and more interesting because of our associations here.

We sincerely hope that you may have developed further your desire to continue your educational career. But whatever worthwhile line of endeavor you may decide to pursue in the future we do hope that you will always keep in mind your motto, "Whatever we do, let us do well."

A reserved, red-head, handsome too,
Who always has a smile for you.
When it comes to girls, she must be blonde;
It seems of those he is most fond.

THOMAS WILLIAM BAUMGARDNER

A good athlete in almost every sport,
Tom has admirers in each and every port.
Neat and handsome with blond hair to match,
So watch him girls, he'll make a good catch.

LORRAINE MAE BELL

This is a girl who sure is a whiz,
Of course in basketball, we mean, that is.
We'll remember Lorraine from "old" Green Park High,
Who served us our lunch and also some pie.

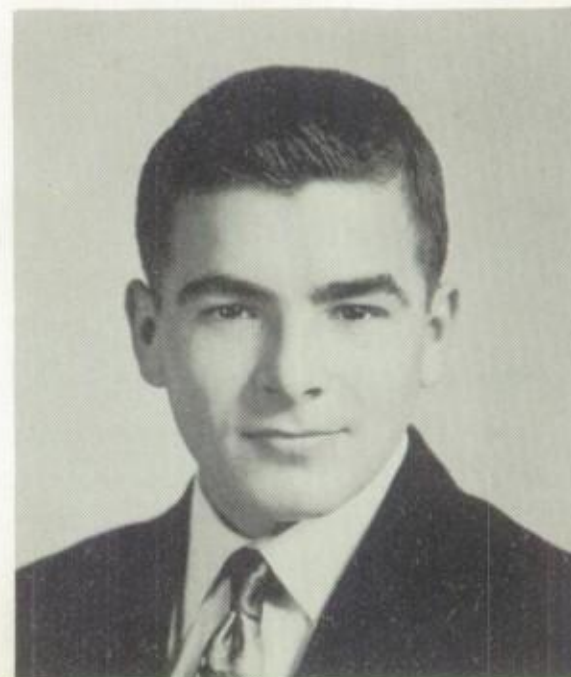

GEORGE THOMAS BILLMAN

Short and dark, they call him "speedy;"
He's good in sports, yes indeedy.
Especially in basketball, when he's on the floor,
You can always hear the people roar.

Small, neat and quite a girl,
The type that can send a boy in a whirl.
Seen with Renate most of the time,
Honestly! Isn't it a crime?

A member of the "big three group,"
The ones who never get the croup.
In science class, Comp is a pill,
And almost makes "dear Tommy" ill.

Here's that singer, remember her face?
She caused so much confusion, it's a disgrace.
In our Senior Class Play way back last fall,
With so much laughter it shook the wall!

Class History

We, the class of '55, met for the first time at Tresslertown. We soon got to know each other.

We elected the following class officers for our freshman year:

President	Bill Arndt
Vice President	Arden Berkey
Secretary	Joanne Beegle
Treasurer	Flo Louise Weibley

We sold Christmas Candy and put the profit in the school fund.

We went to the Builder's Show in Harrisburg.

Our class and the other classes that were then at Tresslertown had a picnic at Colonel Denning.

We went to Landisburg for our Sophomore year. The first part of the year we were a little afraid of the upperclassmen and what they would do to us for initiation. Initiation was not as bad as we had anticipated and after it was over we started pushing the upperclassmen around!

We sponsored a skating party at Rheams.

Officers for the year:

President	Glenn Crum
Vice President	Paul Smith
Secretary	Joanne Beegle
Treasurer	Kay Simonton

Last year when we were Juniors we sponsored the first Saturday night skating party as an experiment. It was a success, and other groups now have skating parties on Saturday night sometimes.

We sold candy and ice cream and got a little more money in the treasury.

We sponsored a Junior-Senior party for the Seniors.

We elected the following officers for our Junior year:

President	Paul Smith
Vice President	Glenn Crum
Secretary	Kay Simonton
Treasurer	Sarah Lou Leonard

This is it! Our Senior year. Our first big event of the year was our trip to Washington. We had clear weather the entire trip, and we all had a wonderful time.

Our next big event was the Senior play. The name of it was "GOLD IN THE HILLS" directed by Mr. Marsteller. This play was the first to be presented in the new building. It ran two nights and about 750 people saw it.

We sponsored a skating party at Rheams.

We sold Prom peanuts and are selling candy now.

We will be the first class to graduate from the new building.

Our class officers this year are:

President	Robert Foltz
Vice President	Glenn Crum
Secretary	Marilyn Shaw
Treasurer	Donald Reisinger

Class Motto: "Whatever we do, let us do well."

Class Colors: Royal Blue and White

Class Flower: Yellow Roses

Class Prophecy

AFTER HURRICANE ZEREEMA

With my foot hard down on the floor of my bipmobile, I raced across the heavens towards Perry County. Fifty years I had been away; time sees many changes, but what would GPU look like after all these years? When I had stopped for hasoleen at the air station in Maryland, Mary Campbell, who was running her own hasoleen station there, told me that it was believed that the recent hurricane, Zereema, had hit dear old GPU and had caused almost complete destruction — or so Ella Hildebrand had said that morning on her gassy TV program.

With sickening heart, I saw the site of dear old GPU, and there it was — the whole sorry truth: ruinous destruction. A lone grey stooped figure was bending over the ruins in a far corner; as my heart lurched, I recognized Herr Gobrecht, searching through the ruins for his new camera. The greatest thing to hit GPU — and he had been without his camera. No wonder he was weeping and wailing loudly. As he neared the far end, a long thing sticking up in the air began to move; he tugged on it, and pulled Diana Gibson and her big horn from under a mass of debris. I rallied and got courage enough to join them, and we began the sorry task of searching for other survivors and salvageable material.

We decided to start our search from the office, as it always had been central headquarters. Mr. Hurley was there, only semi-conscious and moaning into the Public Address System, "That is all; that is all; that is all." We thought Mrs. Milligan should have been somewhere, and sure enough, she was! — out in the vestibule, stringing beads (her time of service long had been up, but she simply would not leave and no one had the heart to make her). Most of the building had been leveled, but one part still remained; the gym was still standing firm; the new team of muscle-builders (Lorraine Bell, John Hebbe, Janice Lightner, and Freda Shenk) had been practicing and had caught the walls in time.

Journeying on down the hall to the music room I heard a familiar humming and was quite sure it was Kate Smith, but to my surprise it was Janice Stewart trying to find the music to those songs which we sang in our Senior Class Play of "55."

Looking through the Health Room window we noticed Joy Miller digging furiously through the debris to find the missing leg to the cot which she had used while waiting for Office Practice to be over.

As we enter the Physics room we found Bob Foltz griping about how Zereema had destroyed the Physics books.

At top speed we saw Mae Deimler running toward us. Puffing, she tried to inform us about the miniature atomic bomb that Dick Clark and Dale Burd had accidentally dropped in the Lab. (Maybe it wasn't Zereema that hit GPU after all.)

Tom Baumgardner and Tom Billman were found in the Candy Room picking up pieces of candy to sell. (As I recall, they always did take care of the nuts.)

Not knowing that Zereema had hit, James Hoffman and Marie Ellerman were in the recreation room doing the Jit-Mambo and yelling, "Let Me Go, Lover."

Going on we decided to see what the hurricane did to the Homemaking Department. We found Lena Comp, Sara Dum, Shirley Murphy, and Marilyn Shaw hunting splinters from the broom handle. We noticed Marguriette Ellerman, Carol Sheriff, and Sarah Lou Leonard in the Cafeteria hunting tooth picks to keep their eyes open. (Late date, wasn't it?)

As I came around the corner, I saw Renate Conrad and Sally Briner heading down the stairs towards the Ag. Room. They were trying to revive old memories, I suppose.

As we approached the second floor, we passed by the Art Room where we saw through the window something that looked like an Indian. On investigation we found it was Geraldine Ritter. She had been painting her master piece when Zereema hit. (Now Geraldine, don't blame it on the hurricane.)

In room 226 there was a slim tall figure, Donald Reisinger, going through the ruins hunting pennies. After all, two can't live as cheaply as one.

Puffs of dust were coming out of room 227. Lois McCutcheon was still practicing her dance which she did in GOLD IN THE HILLS.

Going back into the hall, we found Flo Weibley and Faye Sweger trying to find their old lockers, so they could get their pictures of their men which they left there in 1955.

With tired eyes and discouragement we continue our search. In the Typing room Mr. Mowrey, almost dropping his glasses, saw a puff of dust and two right legs waving in the air. It was none other than Donna Neely and Pat Timmons caught in the act of skipping class.

As I started up the hall and accidentally looked into room 220, I was shocked as I saw Bill and Arlene Weibly Arndt staring dreamily at each other, not knowing that a hurricane had hit the building.

I found Paul Smith desperately trying to pull Madeline Miller out from under a pile of broken desks and torn-up text books.

Going up the hall we heard a clash of heels, and there was Robert Klineyoung paying his respects to the ruins of dear old G. P. U.

When we went into Mr. Buss' room to see what the noise was, we found Harry Fuller trying to find Oscar the skeleton. Harry told us he had forgotten whether there were one or two bones in the upper arm. (Harry, I wish you would stop trying to educate yourself and get a little fun out of life.)

We went into the Faculty room trying to find a chair to rest, and lo and behold — there sat Dean Reisinger and Dean Pennebaker napping from their last beauty sleep. (Remember boys, you don't count sheep, you count your blessings now-a-days.)

As we were leaving the building we heard a flapping sound. Trying to locate the sound, we found Daniel Kennedy, who had been outside trying to fly his new tin-foil wings when Zereema hit. He was yelling, "S.O.S., S.O.S.;" but his puny cries had come too late: GPU had been centrally hit and would never be the same as when housing the Class of 1955. Alack and alas; or, as Macbeth (I think) said,

"Out, out, brief candle."

Class Will

Just before we went on television this evening, a fan was turned on and tore the will to tatters, blowing the pieces everywhere. After much hunting and scurrying around, we found the pieces in the most odd places. We found all but a few pieces; however, we could not match them together very well, but here it is, the best we could do.

We, the Senior Class, being sound in testament, do hereby body this, our last will and mind, to the faculty, the juniors and the sophomores:

Donna Neely leaves her secret hiding place to Carl Robinson, if he should ever want to skip class.

Pat Timmons leaves her ability to get laryngitis, whenever she has a play part, to Freda Kline.

James Hoffman leaves his noise making qualities to Mary Lou Lane.

Ella Hildebrand leaves her little black date book to Erma Deimler.

Donald Reisinger leaves his matrimonial ability to Ed Billman.

Villian Klineyoung leaves his "innocent" laugh to Ronnie Kell.

Tom Billman would like to leave his endearing eyebrows to Edwin Neely.

Bill Arndt passes his ability to scare on-coming drivers to Pat McCoy.

Faye Sweger leaves her tremendous height to needy Ronald Kerr.

Shirley Murphy wills all her worn out love letters to Dick Hockenbury.

Harry Fuller leaves his ability to make good hard cider to Albert Klinger.

Marguiette Ellerman wills her ability to get to school without any sleep to Peg Davis.

Paul Smith leaves everything but Madeline to Julius Rice.

Janice Stewart wills her ability to be a second Kate Smith to Barbara Crull.

Arlene Weibley leaves her worn out Chevie to Fern Baer, in case the snow is deep and the bus can't get to Fern's place.

Tom Baumgardner wills his peroxide blonde hair to Glenn Rudy.

Dean Reisinger wills his school attendance record to Robert Weller.

Renate Conrad leaves her ability to sleep in halls (especially in the Cairo Hotel) to Anna Baughman.

Dick Clark leaves his red face, whenever talking to a girl, to Beanie Swisher.

Sally Briner wills her gift of gab to Mr. Mowery.

Lorraine Bell leaves her racing ability to Patsy Simonton.

It says John Hebbe wills his worn out dye brush (used when dying his hair) to Allan Egolf.

Bob Foltz leaves his worn out tires (going to see Darlene) to Bill Wolford.

Madeline Miller leaves all her old tape (putting it around Paul's ring) to Sara Garlin.

Joy Miller leaves her chair in the office to Pat Shambaugh.

Carol Sheriff leaves her clock (for trying to keep track of time, so Bob could get home in time to milk the cows) to Bill Houck.

Lois McCutcheon leaves her ability to do the can-can in the Bowery to Lois Lyons.

Janice Lightner leaves all her hillbilly records to Jill Gutshall, so Jill can memorize the songs for her future hillbilly career.

Diana Gibson wills her mothball chest (where she keeps her man hidden) to Glenda Ricedorf.

Marilyn Shaw leaves her ability to be a nice old housekeeper to Fannie Singleton.

It says here Mae Deimler leaves her hair to Mr. Grabowicz.

Flo Weibley leaves her Robed Chorus gown to Sara Kline.

Dean Pennebaker wills his old Project books to Donald Baer.

Geraldine Ritter leaves her swing-and-sway to Nancy Shuman.

Freda Shenk wills her empty pen to Joy Zeigler.

Glenn Crum's trumpet-playing ability goes to Cloyd Metz.

Marie Ellerman wills her good times to Jean Smith.

Sarah Lou Leonard leaves her lonely nights to Pat Shull.

Dale Burd wills his ability to work in shop (especially when Mr. Glassburn isn't there) to Charlie Rager.

Lena Comp leaves her laugh to Eunice Shaw.

Mary Campbell leaves her fender scratching ability (especially on Father's new Hudson) to Marie Morrow.

Sara Dum's clarinet goes to Donnie Gutshall; a clarinet makes a very handy weapon.

Bird Kennedy's wings — to Ernie Range, who may need them sometime to fly out of the teacher's way.

And speaking of flying, fly away we must. We, the Seniors of 1955, must fly away to make room for more like us dear seniors. But don't cry too hard; this building must be used for quite a few years, and if you shed too many tears it may wash down the home ec drain.

Signed and sealed with 43 toe-prints this year 1954-1955,

"THE SENIORS"

Having a Good Time in Washington, D.C.

Gold in the Hills

"Gold in the Hills," or "The Dead Sister's Secret," by J. Frank Davis, was the major dramatic work of the year, presented by the senior class and directed by Paul N. Marsteller. A satire of the old-time "meller-drammer," it kept the audiences wondering throughout "Who is Hawkshaw?" and "Will virtue triumph?" (even though they KNEW the hero and heroine just had to outwit the villain at the end).

Cast and crew alike were pleased in particular with the reception of act two — a Bowery dance hall complete with swinging door, tinny piano, bar rail, and typical Bowery characters. (A completely different set was used for the family homestead in acts one and three.) Lighting by Bill Arndt had much to do with the success of this act; and costumes, under the supervision of Mrs. L. M. Trostle and the searching of the cast, colored it as well as acts one and three.

Mr. Dorn Howlette was in charge of sets, and Mr. Jack Glassburn supervised construction and erection of new flats.

Kneeling, center: Lois McCutcheon, dancer a la can-can; Janice Stewart, singer of such as "I Don't Want to Play in Your Backyard;" Shirley Murphy, singer of "Father, Dear Father, Come Home with Me Now."

Resuming: Sally Dum, an elegant sight-seer; Marilyn Shaw, the faithful house-keeper for the old homestead; Flo Weibley, the stay-at-home daughter; Harry Fuller as Hiram Stanley, the poor but honest farmer; Donald Reisinger, the sheriff; (Glenn Crum, the bartender, was absent at time of picture taking) Donna Neely, a Bowery girl; Danny Kennedy, who sang and danced gaily through "The Bowery;" Allan Egolf, gyp sight-seeing guide; Albert Klinger, the honest but not very bright hero, John Dalton; Diana Gibson, the local sentimental lady-drunk; Arlene Weibley, the pure and sinned-against Nellie; Sally Briner, the long-lost dead-sister's child; Clair Smith — could HE be Hawkshaw?; Jerry Reisinger and Renate Conrad, Bowery dancers.

In addition to two regular evening performances November 22 and 23, 1954, a student matinee was given Friday, November 19. Total attendance for this, the first production in the new high school, was the largest in the history of Green Park Union High School.

The HORNETS of Greenpark, although losing three games, went undefeated in the newly formed Blue Mountain League. After winning seventeen consecutive games the Hornets were stopped by Tuscarora in a non-league game. Green Park expects to renew their winning ways next year because they will loose only four Seniors. They are co-captains Don Reisinger and Tom Baumgardner, Paul Smith and Bob Foltz.

When this book went to press the Hornets, under the superb command of Coach Ray Buss, had already won seven non-league games and four league games while losing three.

Although having one of the "smallest" teams in the league the Hornets have been playing an aggressive type of basketball which has already brought eleven victories in fourteen tries.

The Hornets should have a very good chance of capturing the league crown next year because they will lose only three seniors via graduation: Captain, Tom Baumgardner; Tom Billman, and John Hebbe.

We, the class of 1955, wish to thank all the students and members of the faculty for the fine cooperation you have given us in the production of our yearbook. Without the teachers' patient guidance and the students' cooperation we could not have accomplished this.

We have tried to give you a book which will hold for many fond memories, in future years, of your first year in the new Green Park Union High School.

For all the kind considerations you have shown us we present you with this seventh edition of "The Montourian."

Sincerely,

Your staff,

Joy Miller,
Paul Smith,
Co-editors

This is a school service organization. Many school problems are cleared through this body. They assist both faculty and student body. This year they sponsored, provided decorations, and decorated the school Christmas tree. They arrange the assembly schedule as far as possible. They are also trying to raise money to provide a record player for the school recreation room. The officers are elected by the student body during an election conducted by the P. O. D. class. The class representatives are elected by their respective home hooms.

Art Club

The major objective of the Art Club is to provide for its members an opportunity to expand art interests and experiences. Members work largely according to their individual interests. A wide variety of media is available to this group. During the course of this year the Art Club anticipates projects in sculpturing, design, landscape, drawing and painting, graphics, ceramics, and crafts.

Learning phases of theater through actual production, the three drama clubs in weekly meetings or rehearsals have presented one public presentation per month during regular assembly periods. In October efforts were directed towards two plays and a sketch in the gymnasium, arena style. November, the director presented a program of original character sketches; December, the clubs combined efforts on "The Pageant of the Holy Grail." January, a program of sketches: February saw "Waiting for the Bus;" March, "The Birthday of the Infanta;" April, an Easter pageant. The clubs once more merged in May to produce an original comic fantasy.

Some of the phases of production studied and experimented with were lighting, make-up, costuming, play types and selection, and of course stage movement and characterization.
